Ad Text The first lesson of economics is scarcity: there is never enough of anything to fully satisfy all those who want it. The first lesson of Obama's policies is to disregard the first lesson of economics...

USA TO ISSUE MORE GREEN CARDS THAN POPULATIONS OF IOWA, NEW HAMPSHIRE, SOUTH CAROLINA COMBINED. The lion's share of these visas are for lesser-skilled and lower-paid workers and their dependents who, because they are here on work-authorized visas, are added directly to the same labor pool occupied by current unemployed jobseekers. Expressly because they arrive on legal immigrant visas, most will be able to draw a wide range of taxpayer-funded benefits, and corporations will be allowed to directly substitute these workers for Americans.

Improved border security would have no effect on the continued arrival of these foreign workers, refugees, and permanent immigrants—because they are all invited here by the federal government.

Obama swore an oath to uphold our Constitution and protect the American people but he has done everything in his power to destroy us. In a short few years, America will resemble Mehico City ...where you will need to defend your life almost on a daily basis.

Obama is killing our country. In turn I hope he drops dead soon.

Ad Text Jindal on Immigration: 'We Got to Stop the Hyphenated Americans'

"America's immigration problem will only be solved with a secure border," Louisiana Gov. Bobby Jindal tells Newsmax TV.

In an exclusive interview with "Newsmax Prime" host J.D. Hayworth, the GOP presidential hopeful said part of the problem also lies with President Barack Obama "out there saying 'don't worry we're not going to enforce.'"

Good words Mr. Jindal, too bad democrats don't understand such an obvious things and continue to let illegals into the US. They want to keep the border open so violent illegal aliens can victimize our citizens

Jindal said that in a trip to the border, he witnessed illegal aliens easily gaining entry.

"I saw three groups come right across in broad daylight," he said. "One group walked across a man-made dam, got to a fence... they swing the gate wide open. It's not even locked."

America floods the country with people who have no job skills and offer them a living on welfare. Voila, we have a work ethic breakdown. I think, it's time for government to do their job and protect our country. America for Americans!

Ad Text Discrimination runs rampant in too many people in this country - and it comes in too many forms. Ok! I just noticed one interesting thing... The kids that need foster care come from heterosexual families. So I think the straights should be banned from being foster parents!

A Kansas Department of Children and Families official said that the state will continue to allow qualified single adults to serve as foster parents for abused and neglected children, but she said her agency isn't ready to say whether it will allow married same-sex couples to do so.

Oh God... Just because your gay doesn't make you any less of a human or any less deserving of any right afforded to anyone else! Anyone who believes that a gay person is below a straight person needs treatment!

It is time for this freaking discrimination to end! They have no valid reasons for denying married gays from adopting and fostering kids. All they are doing is denying kids loving homes because of their own bigotry.

Ad Text Most parents aren't prepared for the words, "Mom, Dad. I'm gay." For many parents first reaction probably will be "How will I ever handle this?" The answer is simple and difficult at the same time: love and acceptance will help to understand your child's sexuality and its meaning to you and your continued relationship with your son or daughter.

Some parents feel they would have been happier not knowing about their child's sexuality. They look back to before they knew and recall this time as problem-free — overlooking the distance they often felt from their child during that time.

Sometimes parents try to deny what is happening — by rejecting what they're hearing ("It's just a phase; you'll get over it"); by shutting down ("If you choose that lifestyle, I don't want to hear about it"); or by not registering the impact of what we're being told ("That's nice, dear, and what do you want for dinner?").

Such denial often prove as a traumatizing experience for LGBT children. If you as a parent 'll pretend to forgot the truth about your child's sexuality, you would never really know your child. A large part of his or her life would be kept secret from you, and you would never really know the whole person.

It is important to accept and understand your child's sexuality because homosexuality and bisexuality are not a phase. While people may experiment for some time with their sexuality, someone who has reached the point of telling a parent that he or she is gay is not usually going through "a phase".

On the contrary, he or she has given long and hard thought to understanding and acknowledging his or her sexual orientation. So if you're wondering, "Is she/he sure?" the answer will almost always be "yes"!

DON'T BE YOUR CHILD'S FIRST CLOSET!

Ad Text Special prosecutor opened an investigation into death of black women
Raynette Turner

New York Attorney General Eric Schneiderman will launch an investigation into the death of one of the five black women who died in an American jail over a two-week span. Raynette Turner who was the mother of eight children died in jail cell in police custody last week. She was arrested for shoplifting some crab legs from a grocery store. Due to her bad health history she was taken to the hospital and released. But she died in jail waiting for someone to help.

According to American legislation, the courthouse officials are supposed to check the cell every fifteen minutes but, no one checked Turner's cell for more than two hours.

A total of five African-American women have been found dead in police custody in just the last month. Most of them were held for minor charges and still their deaths are under investigation. Sandra Bland from Texas, Kindra Chapman from Alabama, Joyce Curnell from South Carolina, Ralkina Jones from Ohio, and Raynetta Turner from New York were found dead in their cell after being arrested by police officers.

Once again it raises questions about how black people are treated in police custody. What if death in police custody is about excessive police force? Do you realize that dozens of black people were found dead in the U.S?

Ad Text The Civil Rights Activist Mary McLeod Bethune

Mary McLeod Bethune was the civil rights activist and an educator who found the National Council of Negro Women in 1935. Being one of the 17 children of former slaves she was the first and the only child to go to African-American school. She found the Daytona Normal and Industrial Institute for Negro Girls because she believed that education was the key to racial advancement. In addition, Bethune did a lot of work to contribute to American society. For instance, she was the president of the Florida chapter of the National Association of Colored Women. Moreover, in 1935 Mary Bethune became an advisory to President Roosevelt on minority affairs and later on she started her civil rights organization, the National Council of Negro Women.

The great educator and civil right activist Mary McLeod Bethune demonstrated the values of education, the philosophy of love and the wise use of power. Sadly, at least 10 years of data reveals that Congress don't pay attention to American civil rights as Mary McLeod Bethune did 80 years ago.

Ad Text The drama in Pocomoke. A Maryland town several weeks ago fired its first black Police Chief, now exposing a racial rift

The leaders of small Maryland's city in Eastern Shore fired the Pocomoke City's first black police Chief Kelvin Sewell due to his incompetence and refusal to fire black police officers Franklin Savage and Lynell Green. Chief Sewell was hired by Pocomoke City back in 2010 after his retirement from the Baltimore Police Department. Earlier, before Sewell's dismissal he filed a complaint on unequal employment opportunities claiming he was paid less than his white predecessors.

This is circumstantial evidence that America is divided into different parts based on race and income. Racism has gotten so bad, black people are treated unfairly. If God created us equally, why the unequal treatment of minorities still exists in our country? What if the firing gas stirred a new spirit of African-American activism?

Ad Text Who said that protesting is not effective? Yes, it is!

How many black people were killed and shot by police department for the past few years? How many protests have been held since 2013? How useful were protests?

According to analysis by AP, 24 states have put 40 new laws to tackle police violence such as use of police officer body cameras, racial-bias training and surplus of military equipment. However, there is more work to be done to solve racial tensions in America.

The public stand against discrimination happens when there is lack of inside connections with the government. People attempt to stop racism the government usually assumes to be problematic but protesters force the government to find compromise. It's a well known fact, when governments do not deliver, people protest.

Ad Text Man rammed St. Louis police car 'for the black people'. Black people are fed up with an age of racist society?

The 48-year-old Kevin Labriado from Bellefontaine Neighbors was charged for ramming police car from behind twice screaming "for black people". He assaulted two officers and his child who was sitting in his car. Two St. Louis officers were on patrol until Labriado and his five-year-old daughter accidentally rammed their car. When police officer tried to arrest him, Labriado yelled several times "This is for the black people".

What if Labriado sought to revenge for all black lives that officers took away?

Racism obviously gave rise to the tensions in society that led to disrespect and hate. Moreover, black people are fed up with racism and police violence towards black community. What is more, racial tensions have gotten worse under the current government. Even after several months of protests over the deaths of Eric Garner, Tamir Rice, Michael Brown, Sandra Bland and Freddie Gray the government inspired more unrest. Today black community is in desperate situation seeking for help.

Ad Text Alabama Police Officer Kept His Job After Proposal to Murder Black Man and Hide Evidence

A police officer in Alabama proposed murdering a black resident and creating bogus evidence to suggest the killing was in self-defense.

Officer Troy Middlebrooks kept his job and continues to patrol Alexander City after authorities there paid the man $35,000 to avoid being publicly sued over the incident. Middlebrooks, a veteran of the US marines, said the man "needs a god damn bullet" and allegedly referred to him as "that nigger", after becoming frustrated that the man was not punished more harshly over a prior run-in.

The payment was made to the black resident, Vincent Bias, after a secret recording of Middlebrooks's remarks was played to the city's police chiefs and the mayor. Elected city councillors said they were not consulted.

Do you know that you can go to prison for murderous intent? However, if you are a white police officer, offering to KILL a BLACK AMERICAN and then hide the evidence, then you don't even get fired. Oh yeah, it's happening in a wonderful state called Alabama! You know how it works here. Do you have any more questions for American law enforcement system?

Ad Text Young, Unarmed Black Man Killed By Cop Didn't Want To 'Die Too Young'

An unarmed black teenager in Texas was shot dead by a cop who had only recently graduated from the police academy. Just over a week before his death, he posted that he doesn't want to die too young on Twitter.

Officers responded to a burglary call around 1 a.m. on Friday, hearing reports that a suspect was damaging vehicles. First spotting Taylor moving about the lot, officers also noticed Taylor's SUV had been smashed into the front of the dealership showroom. Finding that Taylor had moved inside the showroom, Arlington Police Chief Police Will Johnson said Taylor would not comply when told to lie down on the ground, but fled to a back room. 49-year-old officer Brad Miller entered the showroom to arrest Taylor, and then an altercation broke out. Miller fired four shots, including the fatal bullets from the gun of Miller. A second officer fired a taser, Johnson said.

And now there are three main points that you should think of:

- 1) Taylor was described as a good kid. He was a football player at Angelo State University. Never was involved in criminal activities.
- 2) The officer graduated from the police academy less than 6 months ago and was working under the supervision of a training officer.
- 3) Taylor didn't want to die young.

Black teens don't really live, they survive. And, unfortunately, there is no one to save them from death. There is no one to stop police brutality. We all want our kids to feel safe, we want them to be safe and sound. Are our hopes doomed to disappointment?

Ad Text BREAKING NEWS! #Oakland #JoeBart

Oakland police officers fatally shot a man suspected in alleged carjacking attempt in Downtown Oakland Wednesday night. Is it a race war?

Yesterday night, a group of 50 protesters burned Confederate flag and tried to shutdown a freeway in Downtown Oakland. The opposition to police violence was in response to the police shooting earlier in the day.

According to Oakland Police Department, yesterday at 2:39 p.m. in the area of 69th Avenue and International Boulevard, Oakland police officers spotted a vehicle they believe to be connected to a previous robbery on July 27. The pursuit started when the driver fled through Oakland streets until the suspect crashed into another car in the area of 27th Avenue and Martin Luther King Jr. street. But when the suspect ran of the car, three officers opened fire. The suspect Joe Bart has died at the hospital.

Did you know that it was fifth shooting this year that involved police officers?

How quickly it has become so usual? Why it has become so legit? Where is the government speaking about the existence of racism in America?

Ad Text Why black parents worry about their children? How should we talk to our children about how safely interact with police officers in order to protect themselves?

Tina Carter-Shields has five kids and three of them recently started to drive. The first thought she had when they wanted to drive alone was 'Wait a minute. I'm really scared right now.' What should they do if they get pulled over? What if they do something they don't supposed to be doing? It is not always fair when officers arrest African Americans, but it's a reality. What if police officers will automatically assume that your child is criminal because of how him or her looks.

Black parents should remember that their kids will always be judged by the way they look. That's why it's important to instruct our children how to react when you are in trouble with law enforcement. Because if a stranger follows your child after him/her buy a bag of Skittles, ran back into the store. Remember, anything is better than dying.

Anyways, it's hard to believe that in 21st century black parents have to teach their children both survive and thrive. But who will take responsibility for training police officers?

Well, first of all you have to work much harder to prove that you are worth others. Second of all, everybody is judging and stereotyping you by the color of your skin. Third of all, you are always being an "other" even in the country you were born. Forth of all you are always expected to be load and to dance well. In addition, there are lots of people who like to "throw race cards".

Can we live like that? How long should we wait for the government contributions?

35-mile trek to Washington has started this Sunday evening in order to bring more attention to widespread violence in different cities across America. The founder of the group Munir Bahar said that the march will last 20 hours in a memory of more than 200 people who have been killed in Baltimore this year. The 300 Men March will highlight the racism and violence across the country.

What's wrong with our society? Police kill unarmed citizens, we kill each other. What example we will be setting for the future generations? How are we going to break the cycle of violence? Are there any chances to overcome deeply rooted racism and violence in America? What if peace comes after the fairness?

The new movie Straight Outta Compton focus on legendary hip-hop pioneers N.W.A. and their struggles against racism and police violence. The movie is coming this weekend in the theaters. However, some of the cinemas refused to show the movie, citing "safety and liability" concerns.

Does it remind you of anything? How about Ferguson? How about Baltimore?

Today you are willing to be detained in the name of defending your rights. Today cops can easily shoot you for a small violation. Even having black cops and black mayors doesn't end police brutality. Fortunately today you are allowed to record police officers in order to further prevent potentially serious cases of police wrongdoing fairly.

Writer Chaédria LaBouvier reported that she had seen 14 San Francisco police officers subduing a homeless black man who had one leg outside Twitter headquarters.

Witnesses told LaBouvier that police had been called because the man was waving "sticks," which later turned out to be his crutches.

None of the employees at Twitter or other tech companies came out to object as the 14 officers took down the one-legged homeless man.

The U.S. Justice Department recently filed court documents in an Idaho case which declared it unconstitutional to criminalize homelessness. According to the Coalition on Homelessness, the city handed out 11,000 citations to homeless people who were sitting on sidewalks between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. in 2014.

What kind of people police usually hire? Mentally unstable bloodthirsty cowards or? We already know the answer. Sometimes we all wonder do police officers have mercy for anyone? Hard to say, because what we see confuses us.

Ad Text BREAKING NEWS! St. Louis police fatally shot a black teenager while trying to issue search warrant

On Wednesday, Aug. 19 racial tensions again sparked in Missouri city after St. Louis police officers fatally shot black teenager at Walton Avenue and Page Boulevard while trying to issue search warrant. According to St. Louis Police Chief San Dotson, a young black man pointed a gun at officers and was trying to escape from a house where officers were carrying out a search warrant for him. The 33-year-old and 20-year-old officers who shot the suspect four times were about seven years on the force.

That was followed by crowd of 150 people who gathered by intersection. Later on, nine people were arrested on charges of resisting arrest. The protesters said that the police provoked the situation. What do you think about it? What if this situation makes us want to keep the police out of our neighborhood? Why do you think police shoots first and then asks questions? Do you realize that the shooting came just ten days after St. Louis was flooded with protesters who were marking the anniversary of Michael Brown? What if the city and the government needs to center its attention on racism and discrimination in America instead of suspecting every single black men?

We cannot accept the fact that police can easily kill black people in America, than we must do something about it. Protest or accept it. You choose. This is your life.

Ad Text What is like driving while black in America?

Throughout the twenty-first century there are thousands of complaints of the police "profiling" black drivers in America. Black Americans often complaint about being pulled over for the phenomenon called "driving while black". For example, a rich African American driving new Ferrari can be stopped hundreds of times for no apparent reason just because the fact that a black man driving an expensive car attract the attention of the police officers.

But what if racial profiling ends with lethal consequences? Do you remember Sandra Bland who had run-ins with the police while driving? Do you all remember that she was found dead in police custody? Do we all have to avoid traffic stops in order to survive?

For the matter of fact, the routine traffic stops are being a big deal for the people of color. According to the Justice Department statistics, black drivers are about 31 percent more likely to be subject to police than whites. Overall, this number indicates the racial difference in America.

Tamir Rice, Romain Brisbon, Kajieme Powel, Dante Parker, Michael Brown, John Crawford III, Eric Garner, Jonathan Ferrell, Kimani Gray, Michael Brown and Sandra Bland are one of many examples of excessive police brutality used on black Americans.

You never know if a simple traffic stop will end up with you in a police custody or bullets in your chest.

Unfortunately, many of Americans feel very uncomfortable talking about these issues, which seem to confirm the idea that the government remain silent. Nevertheless, one should accept that African-Americans are more likely to be targeted by police officers on the street than whites. Therefore it endangers the rights of black community.

Doubtless when the government defends the officers who have killed black men, it strikes us how unfair the system is and reaffirms our view that America would spend billions of dollars on radical extremists than talking about the domestic terrorism, racial inequality and police brutality.

Parents are worried about their children`s safety.

Yet here we are, Tennessee parents are worried about their children`s safety at the local school after discovering that anyone is permitted to wear Confederate flag attire and to fly the Confederate flags at school. This provoked widespread discontent among black parents of Rutherford County. One of the parents said that she witnessed the students wearing the Confederate flag T-shirt and the controversial flags flying in the back students` cars.

How would you feel if your child studies among those who like to fly the Confederate flags on their trucks? How would you feel about the safety of your child? Why children were permitted to openly display the Confederate flag on the school grounds? What kind of symbol the Confederate flag is for you? Do you remember Dylann Roof who killed black people at church? Do you remember that he was promoting the Confederate flag? What if your child studies among the same people? Is it an appropriate place for your kid to study?

If Nazi flag was banned, than the Confederate flag must be outlawed too. Thus, if the government continues to accept this flag, it will bring more racist and hateful movements, because the Confederate flag shows a lack of empathy for African Americans slavery and for every black American man.

Police officer Jeff Willis is facing disciplinary action after a video surfaced of him violently threatening teenagers because they were smiling at him and not taking him seriously enough. Willis pulled them over because one of the passengers allegedly flipped him the middle finger from the window.

When one of the young men asks the officer "What did I do?" the officer responds by saying, "I don't know. I just don't like you, I just don't like you."

The only crime committed by the occupants of the car was shooting the video. We have a legal right to film and photograph police, in every state! People should know their rights - it's the first step to stop police brutality.

If another person smiling makes you that upset, you should not be permitted to own a gun. People, who have mental illness or anger issues should not having access to guns. Guns should be in the hands of responsible adults!

Police went out of the control. How much respect do you think Police has for people? 0! In this way, if you can't control yourself it's time to retire, you don't deserve to carry the badge.

America needs better gun control. Although, it's not the type of gun that is the problem. It is the type of gun owner that is the problem. America, control your blue pigs!

Black Lives Matter activist Shaun King has claimed for years that he is biracial, being born to a white mother and a black father. But recently uncovered records claim he misled the public about his race, and that he is in fact a white man pretending to be black.

King's race would not be under scrutiny if it was not an essential component of his career, education and social status. In addition to getting a full-ride scholarship that is exclusively for black men, King has the position of "Justice Columnist" at progressive news website Daily Kos and enjoys a 169,000-strong follower count on Twitter, most of whom are a result of his activism following the death of Mike Brown in Ferguson.

Turning blackness into a performance is anti-blackness—irrespective of whether the white person doing it is Rachel Dolezal or Shaun King.

Ad Text The threat of possible ISIS attacks on the U.S. Military families has risen

U.S. Senator Cory Gardner, a Republican from Colorado said in a statement that he was alarmed by the reports of an FBI alert that relatives of the US military personnel in Wyoming and Colorado were harassed outside their homes by Middle Eastern men and might have been under surveillance. A copy of the alert said that the wife of a U.S. military member was approached in front of her home in Colorado by two men. The incident took place in May. Similar incidents in Wyoming repeated in June.

We see that the threat of possible ISIS attack on families of the U.S. military has risen. And when the threat is so real the US intelligence agencies are doing nothing. As a matter of the fact they don't fully perform their duties. First of all, the US security forces should take all appropriate measures to identify people who scour after the wives and children of the U.S. Military. Secondly, families of the U.S. Military should be taken under special protection of the police and the FBI. If even one hair of the U.S. Military family members will be lost then the work of American secret services isn't worth a dime as they cannot maintain security on the American soil. In case of a negative scenario there won't be any need in their work. And this will be the final nail in the coffin of the American secret services.

Let's remember the last FBI and NSA failures, such as failure to stop the Boston Marathon Bombings and so on. Our soldiers fight for America at the other end of the world and they deserve that their families should be kept safe.

On August 11, 1972 the last US ground combat unit left South Vietnam. Direct U.S. military involvement ended on 15 August 1973. The government spent more than $120 billion on the conflict in Vietnam from 1965-73 that led to the widespread inflation. Psychological effects were even deeper. The war had pierced the myth of American invincibility, and had bitterly divided the nation. Many returning veterans faced negative reactions from both opponents of the war and its supporters.

In 1982, the Vietnam Veterans Memorial was created in Washington, D.C. There the names of 57,939 American armed forces killed or missing during the war are inscribed. Later the total additions brought to 58,267.

Ad Text Nearly half of students don't speak English at GA elementary school

A Georgia elementary school launched a new program for upcoming school year that will rely on students who just learned English to help teach younger students the language.

Almost half of students are served in our program for English as a second language, so it will take years before some students master the language.

Immigrants use every excuse why they can't learn: poverty, racism, too much homework, the list is endless. The main question is why do American taxpayers should pay and take responsibility to provide translators for folks who don't make an effort to learn and speak English?

This is unfair that those kids whose parents chose to immigrate here (most illegally) are all on welfare. They know they don't have to work, because the government will take care of them. So, if the government continues to keep the same standards for illegal immigrants, America will become another 3rd world country.

"It's an inside job," said Rousey, who knocked out Bethe Correia in the first 34 seconds of the first round, is joined the club who questions September 11.

Rousey's belief is also held by 9/11 victims' family members and countless first responders who witnessed the attacks that fateful morning.

While the government continues to denial implication to the 9/11 we still how politicians "care" about our lives. What did they do with ISIS, who beheaded American journalist? What did they do after murder of US citizens in Libya?

Such ignorance from the government side make us feel not safe in our own country. Moreover, it looks like the government doesn't really care about lives of Americans. For the last decades America's "leadership" seem to be lackeys of corporations' interests.

We should provide a glimpse of reality to prevent such things in the future. So, if we let it go today, they'll do it again and again...

Ad Text Rally sparks tension, conversation

A group of St. Cloud-area residents took to the stairs in front of the Stearns County Courthouse to protest an anti-immigration. A group of Americans were spoken out against refugees and Sharia, the Islamic law.

"We know we have issues in our community and we know they exist, but we don't need people coming in and mixing it up and creating more problems," said Jane Conrad, a field representative for the East Central Area Labor Council.

America should wake up before it's too late. Have you forgotten the fires burning in Europe because of very bad progressive ideas? It's always bad idea to bring people with radical beliefs into the country. Muslims don't want to be friends with us, they should be deported back to their 7th century countries.

Ad Text 35,093 vets were left without medical assistance

According to an internal document obtained by media, 35,093 combat veterans are being denied health care enrollment by the Department of Veterans Affairs because of a computer system error. The vast majority of these combat vets served in Afghanistan and Iraq. About 19,000 of them have been pending one month and five years and about 16,000 have been pending for more than five years. It is known that after five years vets lose their eligibility for free health care. Moreover approx. one-third of 847,000 vets with pending applications for health care had already died.

Well, this story clearly demonstrates what value for the state the life of a man willing to sacrifice means. In fact the government doesn't care about its soldiers, even if they are heroes. This confirms that the government's slapdash attitude to the recording vets system left more than 35,000 veterans without medical assistance. And how many of them died before the error in the database was revealed! A truly disgusting attitude to our soldiers!

Ad Text Ex-Ferguson Cop Darren Wilson: Incident 'Makes Me Unemployable'

Do you know the best way to ruin your career in the US? Follow the rules and the "miracle" won't be late in arriving.

I bet you remember the white former officer who shot and killed an unarmed black teen in Ferguson, last August? After national debate over the relationship between police and black communities Darren Wilson aka "Bad cop, who killed innocent black child" tried to go back to police work but was turned down because he's too big a liability.

In the recent interview to New Yorker magazine he said, "It's too hot an issue, so it makes me unemployable."

So what does the situation mean to America?

Almost nothing except one thing... a man's life may be ruined because he had the audacity to defend himself against huge man with malicious intent. Michael Brown was a thug, who had just assaulted a store owner, and robbed him. Do you have any idea what should police officer do in such situation? He must stop the criminal, period. He was in a no-win situation and it proves how upside-down society has become.

I wonder, what will be the next step of American justice degradation? Will surgeons be fired for operate patients with knives? Will Supreme Court send teachers to jail for teaching?

Instead hate Wilson, we should pray for him. He did nothing wrong but idiots turned society against an innocent man. So is it a new America?

Ad Text Colorado court sides against baker who refused same-sex marriage cake order

The appellate court ruled that requiring the cake shop to comply with an anti-discrimination law does not violate the First Amendment.

The ruling was premised chiefly on the Colorado Anti-Discrimination Act, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of a number of protected categories, including sexual orientation.

I'm so sick of this true Christians who have never taken the Bible in their hands. reading or listening someone who read ancient texts and then declaring them to be applicable to today violates the scriptures. God didn't support divorces, so why did bakers not refuse service to divorcees?

Anyway, the truth on our side... finally. So, grab your bae and go to eat some cakes!

Ad Text Our hearts are heavy with grief that we have lost another vibrant member of our community too soon. Our thoughts and prayers go out to all of Amber's family and friends whom she clearly loved deeply.

Trans woman murdered in Detroit. According to initial police reports, 20-year-old Amber Monroe was shot to death.

A lot of transgendered women don't have support systems or employment. So they are forced to do whatever they can do to survive. This attack was fueled by transphobia and we do know that Amber's murder is the 12th murder of a transgender woman in the United States this year, and the 10th murder of a transgender woman of color. Transgender women, and especially transgender women of color, are disproportionately affected by violence.

Her life was just beginning... I know that this loss will leave so many people with a hole in their lives and with more questions than answers. Let's work for real change so that our transgender sisters can be free from persecution. I know we can do better. We have to do better!

Ad Text THE US ARMY HAS PUNISHED CHELSEA MANNING for possessing books and magazines having to do with LGBTQ and political issues. They accused her of misconduct for having an expired tube of toothpaste and for brushing food off the table. They placed her in a solitary confinement – a torturous, extremely distressing experience. The whole cruel, corrupted system is against her.

It looks like military prosecutors view Manning in a way that means she must be “broken” or forcefully assimilated because of her crime –first, because she exposed the government’s crimes, and government really doesn’t like it, and second, because she’s trans.

Their goal is to see that Manning is as dehumanized as possible, but it’s clear who the real non-humans are. Someone has gone to great lengths to paint Chelsea as a deceitful and psychotic character.

But how many of those punishing Manning should themselves be in a psych ward?

Transphobia is a one ugly thing. So sad when heroes like Chelsea Manning forced to suffer, to undergo injustice and humiliation, even though they had been through enough already!

Ad Text Wonder Woman comes from an island populated exclusively by women, so there's no doubt in our minds she is a supporter of the LGBT community. And of course this world always need an amazing power of woman's touch :-)

Isn't it just amazing? Wonder Woman presides over the wedding of two brides in Sensation Comics Featuring Wonder Woman, Chapter 48 written and illustrated by Jason Badower.

Badower said he also really wanted to reference current affairs in the story - specifically, legalization of same-sex marriage nationwide.

"I saw this Wonder Woman story as an incredible opportunity to have one of the most recognizable, iconic characters in the world to be among the first to step forward and officially endorse this new law," he said. "I thought, let's not just have Wonder Woman embrace this new law, let's have her celebrate it."

Some may ask – why is it so important when superheroes depicted as supporters of marriage equality? Because it is a massive, land-mark milestone in LBGTQ rights history.

Because the fight to get to normal was so difficult, and because the fight to change normal is still ongoing. Just like Wonder Woman using her superpowers to struggle with violence and injustice of the world! :-)

Ad Text An openly gay Cuban American poet will take part in Friday's ceremony at the U.S. Embassy in Cuba where the American flag will be raised. The ceremony will mark the official reopening of the U.S. embassy along Havana's oceanfront promenade that overlooks the Florida Straits.

'My inspiration is thinking about 90 miles separating the two countries and the two people, 90 miles is the sea between us.' Just 90 miles, but at the same time it is a vast schism that separates the United States from Cuba.

The poet added he hopes there's still possible to achieve "healing" between the two countries.

'This very moment, the negotiation of cultural identities... This just seems so surreal still... This is really in some sense just the beginning, the dawn of new things to come.'

It would be so great if it will be indeed a new hope and a new day for Cuba, country which is still struggling to recover from severe embargo, country abused by wars. Sadly, the United States participated and initiated many of these conflicts... And there's more - severe economic crisis, socialist dictatorship of Cuban leaders.
It's time for us to lend a helping hand.

Ad Text Do you seriously believe God will judge someone for loving a person of same sex, but will not judge you for hating someone you have never met?

A Kentucky clerk who defied a federal judge's order to issue marriage licenses and turned away four gay couples has until Monday to convince the judge to delay his mandate.

U.S. District Judge David L. Bunning rejected Rowan County Clerk Kim Davis' claim that her Christian faith should exempt her from issuing marriage licenses to same-sex couples and ordered her on Wednesday to hand out the licenses. But her office kept denying them.

Interesting what would happen if I walked up to my boss and said I refuse to the job I am being paid for today? Let me think... guess I would stand in the unemployment line!

Her job is not to participate in gay weddings!! All she has to do is confirm that the paperwork is correct! She should be fired, fined and charged with contempt of court!

Ad Text On the first anniversary of Robin Williams' death, I want to remember his most influential LGBT roles throughout his acting career.

The 63-year-old comedian, who had struggled with depression, died by suicide on August 11 2014.

His widow Susan Schneider said at the time of his death: "As he is remembered, it is our hope the focus will not be on Robin's death, but on the countless moments of joy and laughter he gave to millions."

Even at home, Williams exhibited acceptance for the LGBT community with his trademark playfulness.

While he denied rumours about being gay, he had no qualms about discussing the sexuality of his pet pug.

He said: "I also have a gay rescue pug called Leonard. He has a boyfriend and they are planning to adopt a Siamese kitten together. We're very modern."

When the Westboro Baptist announced its intentions to picket his funeral, pro-LGBT organisation Planting Peace raised over $40,000 for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital – one of Williams' favourite charities.

Robin Williams played many different roles in so many people's lives, and giving back to others was at the top of that list... We will never forget you. And we'll always love you...

Ad Text The first male couple to be married at West Point Military Academy was attacked on 2 August in NYC's SoHo neighborhood.

Some guy screamed anti-gay obscenities at Daniel and Larry Lennox-Choate and then attempted sucker-punching Danny. But our guys handled the situation and tossed him in the street, like the loser he is!

As Danny and Larry wrote in a FB post, "He left covered in his own blood with his tail between his legs.

Damn right! Gay people are not cowards or sissies!

I think this is how most (if not all) stories of queer guys and gals being attacked should end. I so hate it when gay are the ones who have being killed, maimed or badly beaten.

We welcome people with an outstretched hand, when they come in peace, and with our clenched fists, when they choose to wage war against us!

Ad Text ABOUT 15,500 TRANS PEOPLE ACTIVELY SERVE IN THE MILITARY.

It's estimated that over 134000 American veterans are transgender. Not long ago these people were forced into hiding. As a result, many were unable treatments for their gender dysphoria, a state of emotional distress caused by how the gender someone was designated at birth conflicts with their gender identity.

Coming out as transgender requires telling everyone in your life about you and enduring the consequences which often means the loss of family, lifelong friends, your job, and being the subject of ridicule, discrimination, and often violence. No one makes the decision easily and no one transitions unless they have to do so.

Transphobic slur of stupid politicians like GOP presidential hopeful Mike Huckabee seeking to tremendous efforts of transgender community who are still struggle for equal rights.

We know how easily bigots and fools who has power are able to reverse progressive changes for their own benefit. We can't let that happen!

These people know what it means to be Transgender and know what it is to serve in our Armed Forces. We respect their opinion in both of these areas, especially over those of Governor Huckabee who has not experienced or accomplished either.

Ad Text Are you going to vote in this presidential election as young black male or female?

The founder and editor-in-chief of Black Millennial and one of the organizers of Black Lives Matter NYC Arielle Newton is 23-years-old. She is black college-educated woman who is drawing in $160,000 student loan debt. Today, Arielle is centered on the roots causes racism and resulting epidemic discrimination and socioeconomic illness. In fact, in her opinion the candidates for the next president of the United States of America are problematic in terms of lack of transparency and accountability. For instance, one candidate is complicit in fueling the war on drugs; another one in corrupted criminal justice system, next one in making racial justice as the centerpiece of the campaign as a strategy to have more black voters.

Doubtless, voting won't bring us safety and won't provide us an immediate conduit for our social well-being. Ironically, even the first black president of the United States of America was not able to withstand the racist opposition and law enforcement. It means voting again for anti-black system won't save black lives, but might jeopardize it.
